Films are suitable for ages 16 and older.

ABOVE AND BEYOND

In 1948, just three years after the liberation of Nazi death camps, a group of Jewish American pilots answered a call for help. In secret and at great personal risk, they smuggled planes out of the U.S., trained behind the Iron Curtain in Czechoslovakia and flew for Israel in its War of Independence. This ragtag band of brothers not only turned the tide of the war; they also embarked on personal journeys of discovery, sacrifice and renewed Jewish pride. ABOVE AND BEYOND is their story.

The first major feature-length documentary about the foreign airmen in the '48 War, ABOVE AND BEYOND brings together new interviews as well as stunning aerial footage to present a fascinating, little-known tale filled with heart, heroism and high-flying chutzpah.

BEFORE THE REVOLUTION

During the 60's and 70's thousands of Israelis are living in Tehran, enjoying a special relationship with the Shah and his dictatorial rule. Protected by large arms deals and complex financial ties, the Israeli community enjoy a wealthy and luxurious lifestyle; failing to note that the corrupt and despised ruling power to which they are connected, is collapsing.

By the time they understand that their 'Iranian Paradise' is turning into hell, it is almost too late, and they stand to find themselves in the middle of the Islamist revolution, due to take Iran by storm. Using rare archive footage, interviews with diplomats, Mossad agents, businessmen and their families, the director – whose family had been part of the very same community – reveals a new perspective on the revolution that changed the world. What starts as a nostalgic look at a lost era becomes a thrilling story where huge dreams are shattered in a dark reality of greed, blindness and lust for power.

by Alison Lebovitz and Andy Hodes, co-advisors and Noa Hadad

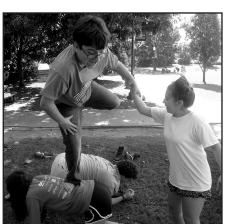

The Jew Crew had a great day in Coolidge Park for our October program, led by our shlicha, Noa, and special Israeli guest Kfir (who lives in Nashville and commutes to Chattanooga for work). Using some basic bungee and climbing ropes, the teens engaged in some unique team building activities that challenged both their minds and bodies. The games yielded a few bruises, but tons of laughter too.

Benjamin Hilner to Become a Bar Mitzvah at B'nai Zion December 13

Benjamin Hillner is the son of Matthew and Shannon Pickett, and big brother to Joshua Hillner and Avery Kate Pickett. He is the grandson of Dr. William and Susan Hillner of Chattanooga, Andrew and Jean Smith of Knoxville, and Melinda Pickett of Chattanooga.

Ben is an 8th grader at Ringgold Middle School. He enjoys playing the tuba and is a proud member of the competitive Ringgold Middle School band. He has a natural talent for music and often plays by ear. He looks forward to continuing his musical journey with the Ringgold High School Marching Tiger Band next year.

Ben has attended summer sessions at both Camp Ramah Doram and Camp Coleman and he hopes to attend again in the future. Ben and his family enjoy vacationing at Walt Disney World; Ben has a knack for Disney Park trivia and even aspires to be a "Disney Imagineer," hoping to dream up designs for their newest rides and attractions. Other hobbies include antiques, vinyl records, and classic music. He enjoys music from the 1950's and 1960's, including artists such as the Everly Brothers, Bobby Vee, Buddy Holly, and Elvis Presley.

Ben's Bar Mitzvah project will center around Neve Michael Children's Village in Pardes Hanna, Israel. Neve Michael serves over 250 children aged 4-18 and provides them with shelter, food, counseling, and love and compassion. Neve Michael offers stability for these children, many of whom have been abused or traumatized. Ben hopes to raise both money and awareness for this worthy cause.

Mad for Madrichim

by Co-Directors Paula Israel CJCRSDir2@gmail.com; 423-802-8434 and Jackie Rosenfeld; CJCRSDir@gmail. com; 423-762-0104

When I began to volunteer for the Chattanooga Jewish Congregational Religious School nine years ago, I was not familiar with the word madrichim. Upon research, I learned that it means "aide or guide" in Hebrew. In our case, the word refers to young adults in grades 9-12 who serve as assistants to the teachers and staff. The majority attended the CJCRS themselves for many years as students before they began participating in the Madrichim Program.

There are many reasons why the CJCRS and the majority of Jewish education programs offer a Madrichim Program. First and foremost, they serve as a way for high school students to continue their Jewish education while learning important skills that will serve them throughout their lives, both personally and professionally. Additionally, madrichim learn many important and necessary 21st century skills, including communication, collaboration, creative thinking, flexibility, leadership and problem solving abilities, all of which help prepare them for further academic and employment opportunities.

Many times being a Madrich(a) is the first paying job for these young adults. Participating in this program allows them to experience the work world in a familiar environment with people they know. They get meaningful job training, such as learning the importance of punctuality, how to fill out tax forms, and how to cash a paycheck.

While serving as a member of the madrichim program, these young people help the teachers and students in many different ways. The majority of them help in the individual classes, while others may assist the non-teaching staff (such as directors) in the administrative office. Throughout the year, all of the madrichim interact with students of all ages, in a variety of capacities. They may help fix computer issues, take photographs, or teach a small group of students. They can also be special project coordinators, tutors, tear wipers, and so much more! The madrichim make a one year commitment when they begin as freshman, and most continue to participate throughout their high school years.

Another important aspect of the Madrichim Program is that the young guides act as role models for the students. Important relationships are formed (though some already exist: at times the Madrich(ah) may be an older sibling, cousin, or familiar face from temple or synagogue.

Often young students ask, "What do I have to do to be a madrich when I am older?" The answer is simple! Keep attending Sunday School, and we will be happy to have you join us! Many post-B'nai Mitzvah students continue to attend Sunday School just so they can participate in the Madrichim Program when they are older.

Parents often ask what type of training is given to the madrichim to prepare them for their jobs. We always provide both formal and informal training. Our madrichim advisor, Trent Center, meets with the Madrichim during bi-yearly teacher training sessions and also as a group each week. A variety of materials, including the ISJL madrichim curriculum and "The Madrichim Manual" by Lisa Bob Howard, are used to study and discuss issues, including how students learn, and working with students with disabilities. Group discussions and role playing also offer these young educators insight into specific and general concerns. Rabbi Tendler, Rabbi Tepper and community specialists in many fields also support the Madrichim by serving as speakers and answering questions. Trent Center along with Paula Israel observes the Madrichim in the classroom and also helps the teachers in their utilizing of their assistants. Experienced madrichim also mentor new madrichim in their first year in the program.

Recent studies on Jewish life show that young adults in their 20's and 30's are often "disconnected" from Judaism. Those who are involved with their Jewish communities often were active participants at Jewish camps, Jewish youth groups, and as Madrichim, during high school and college. It is a way to engage teens in congregational life, which strengthens their Jewish identity. In fact, there have been many current and past teachers all over the world who served as madrichim in their youth.

Our madrichim are a vital part of our education team and our faculty. They enhance the Jewish educational and social experience for everyone. They build confidence in their skills and make new friends. The main goal is to be a leader in the Jewish community and the broader community. From my perspective, we at CJCRS are definitely meeting these goals.

Over the years I have spent many Sundays with these teens. I think I have learned more from them than they have from me. I have watched awkward 9th graders become more confident in their abilities and become leaders among their peers. I have also worked with a few who decided a career in education was right for them while others learned that a career in education was not what they were interested in. I believe that the Madrichim Program is a very important part of the educational opportunities available at the CJCRS.

If you have any questions or know of a high school student who may wish to become involved, please contact Paula Israel or Trent Center.

It's time once again, for Mizpah volunteers to "save the day" (December 24th) for Chattanooga's "Kids on the Block Holiday Gift Wrap" at Hamilton Place Mall. Holiday Gift Wrap is one of the Kids' biggest fund raising events of the year. The proceeds help them to continue providing educational (and wonderfully entertaining) programs to children and adults in 16 Tennessee and North Georgia counties. The Kids' busiest day is always December 24th. We're asked to provide at least four people per shift at each station. First shift is 10 a.m.- 2:00 p.m.; the second is 2:00 – 6:00pm (when the mall closes). Volunteers must be at least 18 years of age or older. Each year's Kids on the Block Holiday Gift Wrap volunteer project concludes with a Dutch Treat dinner at a nearby Chinese all-you-can-eat" buffet. Wrappers from both shifts are invited to attend this "traditional" December 24th meal. To volunteer, contact Helen Smith helen smith01@epbfi.com.

CHABAD OF CHATTANOOGA

by Rabbi Shaul Perlstein

In the small town in Galicia lived a learned and saintly man called Rabbi Hershelle Tschortkower. He was busy night and day, some people sought his advice; others his blessing. And then there were the poor widows, orphans, sick people, and old ones who needed money for their daily bread. He was forever collecting money for those who were unable to help themselves. Rabbi Hershelle had a shamash (secretary) to share his responsibilities with, Anschel Moses Rothschild, who was then a poor young man but a faithful and devoted assistant

It happened on the night before Passover when a solemn search for leaven is conducted in the Jewish home, Rabbi Hershelle was examining the drawers in his desk, when he discovered that his purse with five hundred guldens collected to help the poor was missing!

The Rabbi pulled out the entire drawer and checked the desk more carefully. He looked under the desk and behind the desk, but the purse was not to be found. The Rabbi's heart was filled with pain.

Then he began to suddenly realized had known about Moses, who just had gotten marin the nearby town father-in-law opened Rabbi had always else could have was no other expla-feel even sadder, for he that the only one who the purse was Anschel two months earlier ried and moved to live of Sniatyn, where his a store for him. The trusted him; but who taken the money? There nation

Could Anschel Moses be a thief? Perhaps, thought the Rabbi, Anschel Moses had borrowed the money when he went to Sniatyn to get married. Maybe he was already planning to return it? Not wanting to embarrass Anschel Moses, or let people know that he even suspected him, he decided to travel quietly to Sniatyn to discuss the matter and give Anschel Moshe an opportunity to clear up the matter.

Immediately after the festival, the Rabbi hired a wagon and went to visit Anschel Moses, who was very pleased to have such an honored visitor. Then the Rabbi told him the reason for his visit. The Rabbi said that he was sure Anschel Moses had only meant to borrow the money, G-d would forgive him for his wrongdoing, and no one would ever know about it. If it had been his own money, the Rabbi said, he would not have been so concerned, but this was money collected for the poor, so the stolen money had to be found immediately.

As the Rabbi spoke, Anschel grew pale and frightened, and his eyes filled with tears. He went to his money-box, emptied it, and without a word gave all the money to the Rabbi, it was only half of the total sum, but Anschel Moses promised to give the rest of the money to the Rabbi as quickly as possible.

The Rabbi was both relived and saddened. Anschel had not said word in self-defense, yet the tears in his eyes were proof that he realized his mistake. The Rabbi thanked Anschel Moses, assured him that everything was forgiven and forgotten and went on his way. Anschel Moses kept his promise working longer hours than ever and saving his money carefully to repay the Rabbi, proving his honesty and eagerness to make amends.

One morning, there was a loud knock on the Rabbi's door. The Chief of police had come to ask the Rabbi to accompany him to the Police Station. Puzzled the Rabbi prayed to G-d that it should not be connected with any danger to the Jewish community.

The Police Chief brought the Rabbi to his office and asked him if anything had been stolen from his house recently. The Rabbi was surprised he had never spoken to anyone about the missing money. He responded that indeed there was a purse stolen but assured him that the one who took it had since returned the money.

"You Jews are a wonderful people," the Police Chief said with admiration. "Never in my life have I heard of anything like this!" Opening the drawer of his desk he pulled out the missing purse and handed it to the surprised Rabbi.

The Chief of Police explained that a woman was hired to clean in the Rabbis home before Passover. While cleaning she happened to find the purse and took it to her house, hiding it in the garden near a tree. It did not take long for the neighbors to become suspicious when she suddenly stopped working yet acquired new clothes and jewelry. They reported it to the police, who caught her digging in the garden, as soon as she uncovered the purse, the police arrested her.

"Here you are, Rabbi," said the Chief of Police with a friendly smile. "I just can't understand? Why did that young man pay for the theft when he was not guilty?"

The next day the Rabbi traveled to Sniatyn. He ran up to Anschel Moses, and tearfully asked his forgiveness. "Why did you not tell me that you were innocent?" asked the Rabbi in a trembling voice. Anschel Moses explained that the sadness and worry of the Rabbi had deeply touched him. He knew that if he said the truth and offered to help, the Rabbi would refuse it, knowing that he was far from a rich man. So Anschel Moses and his wife gave everything they owned to the Rabbi, and for months, saved every penny to complete the missing amount. The Rabbi embraced Anschel Moses and blessed him to have great riches, to always be able to help the poor and needy. The blessing of Rabbi Hershelle was fulfilled. Anschel Moses became a successful merchant and banker in Frankfort. His children carried on their banking business increasing their wealth from generation to generation.

Ancshel Moses' Great grandson, Baron Edmund de Rothschild of France, earned the name of Hanadiv Hayadua -- "The Famous Benefactor." He helped many Jews in many different ways.

So this was the secret of the Rothschilds' success -- the unselfish generosity of an ordinary man, a man who gave charity without letting anyone know of his great sacrifice.

Let's face it. Today's world has become pretty impersonal – automated tellers, voice mail systems, warehouse stores. Convenient, yes, but sometimes don't you wish you could talk to a real person who cared? Now consider something very personal – your home.

Andy knows that when it comes to buying or selling a home, no two person's needs or goals are exactly the same. That's why he never tries to fit you into a mold or use a cookie-cutter approach when what you need is a personalized plan. Andy believes that each home, like each person, has its own mark. And whether he's helping you find the perfect home or finding the right buyer for your sale, his personal touch gets the best results. Call Andy today for a no-obligation real estate consultation. Print Exhibit Opening Reception

(Exhibit on view through December 12)

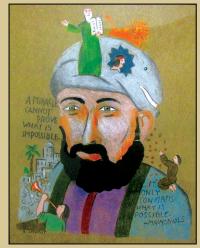

Curator's Statement

I love words in all forms of print.

In this exhibit you will find words that have been manipulated (Judith Paul), words in traditional print... although sometimes from non-traditional media (Michael Schulson), handwritten words (Erik Haagensen), and words that have been illustrated as part of popular culture (Voices & Visions).

Words always have meaning. The Print exhibit came about as a way to look at words for their visual, conceptual and utilitarian ways to communicate a thought or idea.

Words can be funny, hurtful, information, meaningful as well as cryptic, comic and beautiful. I looked for various media as an expression of how a printed word could be used.

My hope is that in Print you will find words that make you reflect, laugh, ponder, inform or just say "wow" I wish I had put down that thought.
