

CHATTANOOGA JEWISH CONGREGATIONAL RELIGIOUS SCHOOL

A Message from the Directors

Jackie Rosenfeld and Paula Israel

With classes running from August to May, CJCRS covered many Jewish holidays and special events. This past year saw a record number of madrichim (12!) and an overall enrollment of 50 children.

At the beginning of 2014 and 2015, our staff exchanged ideas with the Knoxville teaching staff in mini-seminars. Every summer, our staff members have the option of attending the Annual Institute of Southern Jewish Life (ISJL) Conference in Jackson, Mississippi--always a wonderful experience.

In the spring 2015 semester, we held an all-school event for Tu B'shevat, celebrating and learning about trees and water. In March we enjoyed our Purim Carnival. Throughout the year, we enjoyed Tefillah sessions with Rabbis Tepper and Tendler, music with Rachel Salomon, and interactive sessions with Noa Hadad, our shlichah, and with our ISJL Fellow, Ali Duhan. One of my favorite events this year was the Kahoot session about Israel with Noa in May.

Classes will reconvene in mid-August at B'nai Zion. Did you know that CJCRS has been in existence for over twenty years? What a wonderful accomplishment! Join us, and be part of this fun-learning-broadening-growing community.

Have a Great Summer!

Journey of the Soul: Thoughts from my JLI Trip

by Robert Krigelman

I had the opportunity to visit Israel last March on a trip sponsored by the Jewish Learning Institute and organized by Israel Maven Tours. I was asked to share my experience with others who may be interested in a future trip, which have been scheduled every two years since 2008. So why was this trip different than all other trips?

Representing over 40 Chabad chapters, this international group – visitors from the United States, England, Australia and British Columbia – totaled over 550 participants. We were told it was the largest tour group in 2016 to date, at a time of uncertainty and apprehension in Israel.

Despite the large group, I never felt part of a herd. The trip offered four to five options on most days; this allowed us to tailor our individual itineraries to our personal interests, to break up into smaller groups to explore ancient ruins or the latest in high tech, or the history of the War of Independence, or the resistance of Masada.

There were also opportunities to experience and celebrate the land of Israel as a group. We had an unforgettable Kabbalat Shabbat at the Western Wall, and a Havdalah service in the Mamilla-Alrov Promenade. We also had unique opportunities not often available on other Israel tours, including traveling to Hebron and experiencing the Me'arat HaMachpelah (Cave of the Patriarchs), as well as a trip south to Kibbutz Alumin to learn about life seven seconds from the Gaza border.

The Israel Maven tour guides – truly tour facilitators – were well versed and highly knowledgeable. They were not content with just discussing facts and dates. They demonstrated a passion for the land and culture, and always tried to tie what we were experiencing to the spiritual, frequently citing passages and references to Mishnah, Talmud, Tanach and Siddur.

After the trip, I was often asked about safety. I felt safe the entire trip, even in Hebron. Truthfully, the moment of greatest anxiety was while sitting on the bus waiting for the ride to Yad Vashem. I realized my passport was packed in my suitcase, ready to be picked up by the tour staff to be taken to the airport for our flight home that evening (I jumped off the bus, ran to the room and retrieved my passport, then hailed a cab to the museum and caught up with my group).

I was also questioned about going on a Chabad trip – was I expected to be frum? While there were plenty of opportunities to be observant, being strictly religious was not required. Want to get up early and pray at Rachel's Tomb? Rather sleep in or get in an early morning walk on the boardwalk? Either choice was perfectly fine. In general, the group wore comfortable, respectful clothing. The rabbis and rebbetzins on the trip were kind, engaging and helpful. As usual with Chabad, I never felt awkward or judged.

Given the opportunity, I opted for the more spiritual experiences. I was deeply moved when praying at dawn at Kever Rachel (Rachel's Tomb), and immersing in the mikvah of the Holy Arizal (Rabbi Yitzhak Luria, the father of contemporary Kabbalah) in Tzvat. And I have to admit, when approached by strangers in the Old City and asked if I wanted to lay tefillin, it felt pretty good to be able to say, "No thanks, I took care of that at Shacharit this morning."

Our group was enlightened by great lecturers and speakers, including Chief Rabbi Israel Meir Lau, Gil Hoffman (chief political correspondent and analyst for the Jerusalem Post), author Sherri Mandell ("The Blessing of a Broken Heart"), and activist Natan Sharansky. Particularly moving was a discussion with Rochelle Frankel, mother of Naftali, one of the three boys kidnapped and murdered in June 2014.

On the less spiritual side, the accommodations were excellent. We stayed at four-star hotels: the Hilton Tel Aviv and King David Citadel in Jerusalem. And of course, after the amazing Israeli breakfast buffets, I will never look at my morning raisin bran the same way again.

We hit the ground running from the moment we landed in Tel Aviv. Our days were long, full and fulfilling. In retrospect, I would have planned to extend my trip 1-2 days to have the free time to do some extra shopping (and would also bring an extra suitcase).

Would I recommend the trip to others? Admittedly, a JLI trip is not for those who want to spend their days on the beach in Tel Aviv. I found the trip to be an educational and spiritual journey led by an experienced, professional, top-notch organization. I came home from my first trip to Israel with a deep connection to the land and respect for those who live there. I look forward to a future trip to experience all those choices I had to pass on the first time around.

Another Great School Year Comes to a Close--and Thank You!

We finished another fabulous year at Chabad Hebrew School in our beautiful classrooms at the new Chabad building. HADASSAH NEWS

Hadassah Happenings

by Cathryn Cohen
Chapter Reporter

Have you sent in your RSVP to Dana Waxler for Café Cubaña? A real treat is in store to view Dana and Richard's many slides from their Cuban mission. Share Cuban-style snacks, coffee and mojitos, enter contests, and more. You must call quickly as space is limited at Casa Waxler! Have your covert of $18.00 in hand and arrive at 7:00 p.m. on Sunday, June 5 for a fun and fascinating evening. All proceeds go to Hadassah medical research.

Did you know that besides our fabulous hospitals, and our educational and environmental projects and programs, Hadassah members are passionate about advocacy? Contemporary domestic issues Hadassah focuses on include women's health (including preventative care and reproductive freedom), gender equality in medical research, human trafficking, and affordable child care.

In addition, Hadassah members advocate on behalf of Israel and work to counter the BDS (boycott, diversify, sanction) movement prevalent on too many college campuses that seeks to hurt Israel economically and diplomatically. Periodically, Hadassah members visit their Congressional representatives and senators in Washington ("Day on the Hill") and their state legislators ("Date with the State") to present their positions on these important issues. To receive Advocacy Alert notices from the National Hadassah site, visit myhadassah.org and click on Take Action.

Commitment to Hadassah can also be shown by purchasing Life Memberships, Annual Memberships, Associate Memberships, and beautiful jewelry. These purchases are always appreciated. In 2016, Hadassah annual members may upgrade to Life Membership at a reduced enrollment fee of $180 before their annual membership expires. For more information, contact Barbara Oxenhandler. Membership in Hadassah is the perfect gift that fits every occasion.

The newest Hadassah jewelry features a heart necklace, priced at $100, which supports the new addition to Hadassah Hospital. Three styles of bracelets at $25 each support Young Judaea scholarships. The jewelry is available through Millie Lander. And for all Life-Cycle events, think of purchasing cards through Paula Israel.

Remember, National President Ellen Hershkin has invited all Hadassah members to participate in Hadassah's second annual "Every Step Counts" walking event which began April 11 and ends July 21. Stay tuned and "like us" on Facebook today! Visit: myhadassah.org to register for the walk. It's not too late! You'll be participating in a great, healthy way to show your allegiance to Hadassah. Take a virtual walk from Hadassah's hospitals in Jerusalem to our 98th National Convention to be held in Atlanta, Georgia July 25-28. The road may be virtual but the challenge is real. You'll be taking and recording real steps to a healthier future. As you log your steps, you'll pass important milestones along the way. Your personal pedometer will keep you on your toes! Of the three available challenge levels, you're sure to find the one perfect for you. Register today!

Speaking of the convention this July, the lines are now open to register. To do so, go to www.hadassah.org/hadassah-national-convention. Sign up with a friend, share a room, and get ready for the time of your life. There will be so much to do, see and hear. It will be a win, win, win experience. Just think of all the information you can bring back to our Chapter.

Supporting Hadassah means putting our Jewish values into action: advocacy, health, and well-being, and building community in Israel and in the United States.
